Course Updates

Bunker Maintenance

Full loads of sand have been delivered and are being added to all bunkers to reestablish consistent depths following snow melt and spring rainfall. Bunker edge definition work is ongoing, and exposed liners are being stapled back to the bunker profile to ensure containment and a consistent playing surface.

Tree Line Refinement & Landscape Development

Areas where tree management was completed are being further refined using bush blades, with an additional skid steer pass planned once conditions have sufficiently dried. In addition, we are currently collaborating with landscape designers on a rolling berm feature to be integrated behind the 1st green and extending down the 2nd hole. This project is part of the club's long-term strategy for aesthetic enhancement, storm water management, and improved turf health.

Green Recovery & Height of Cut

With warming temperatures, the greens are expected to fill in progressively from fall aeration work. Our agronomic team will gradually return to our standard height of cut, with greens conditions and playing speeds anticipated to return to the high standard members experienced last season.

Rough Height Adjustment

The slow-release fertilizer program applied to the bluegrass rough adjacent to fairways continues to deliver strong results, with the rough presenting in excellent health. The agronomic team will be gradually reducing rough heights to 2 inches, a half-inch reduction from previous heights, to provide a more refined playing area throughout the course.

Hole 7 - Bunker Repair

As you have noticed, the greenside bunker on hole 7 took on heavy snow melt and excess water run off this Spring, causing the sand to wash out and clog our drain lines. We are currently in the process of clearing the drain lines, adding drainage to the bunker, softening the face and restoring the sand. If your ball comes to rest in this bunker, please take free relief outside of the bunker, no closer to the hole, without penalty.
